Reducing Poverty Conversation, Collaboration & Community with Paul Born

Workshop

Communities around the world are entering a new era of community building. Whether improving economic conditions and reducing poverty, reenergizing citizens and social and mental health programs for families, reducing crime, or revitalizing a troubled neighborhood, they are engaging people from all sectors as never before to work together as equals to improve their quality of life. At the heart of this engagement are community conversations, in which common goals are embraced by a diverse array of people with different backgrounds and need, and influencers are drawn from multiple sectors, including community organizations, the various levels of government, and business leaders big and small?

This workshop will be highly interactive and is full of informative and inspiring examples of conversations that built citizen engagement and collaboration for poverty reduction sparking community change.

Our key note speaker and lead facilitator Paul Born will provide exciting tips to help you engage your community in creating and implementing a vision for positive change. Paul is the founder of Vibrant Communities Canada – a national anti poverty initiative, that is active in 12 cities across Canada and that has so far reduced poverty for more than 125,000 Canadians. Paul will lead us through the reasons and the process of community collaboration and engaging citizens, in exploring partnerships, and in developing, maintaining, and enhancing partnerships that reduce poverty. He will also lead us in conversations about the new forms of collaborative leadership required for community change today.
